THE RAYMOND LION

The last regular meeting of the Raymond Lions Club for 1950 was held in the Club rooms at the Opera House on Monday night at six-thirty. We feel that this has been one of our best years, and there was a very good attendance Monday with twenty-five Lions and several guests partaking of one of Lucille's lovely meals. We have had five new Lions during the last three meetings.

There was a bit of fun with our attendance draw. Every Lion present puts a dime in the pot with the names of all the wives and could-be's. Then one lady's name is drawn, and this week it was Mrs. Grant Favus who got the pot. What's more important, he was there. You see, if her husband is not at the meeting the lucky, or luckless gal, receives a telephone call informing her of her good fortune but regrets that her man took it away from her by not being out to the meeting—lucky man?

Special guests to our meeting were Lion Clayton Bricker and Mr. Stauffer of Lethbridge. They brought a very interesting film and lecture on "Employment and the Older Man". The people in Raymond very likely do not realize that a man of forty-five still has ten or fifteen years of his best service left, but so called modern business trends are not giving these men a chance to work. Many large industries do not hire any men over forty-five. One reason is the many pension plans in force. Employers in our town should realize that it is nearly impossible for such men to secure new jobs. These men do not expect to be kept on the pay-roll for inferior work. But when a business goes out of production, temporarily or permanently, men are out of a job regardless of their age. Employers are asked to give the older man a chance with any man if he can do the job as well. Give him a chance to serve you with added experience and efficiency. Don't discriminate against him because he is not as young as his son.

The meeting broke up at a seven-forty-five. We convene at an early hour in the winter to get ahead of the many activities and meetings during the busy season. Anyway, half of the Lions had to go to Magrath to the big contest—age old—of the Jacks and the Rockets. And they may never miss another—it was a beautiful exhibition of skill and drive. The old Sabey-Rice drive and fight and guts was plenty for the local boys to meet. Art Zeihn's ring put on a very heady show but the Magrath boys were just two points better. Final score 58 to 56. The refereeing was good.

President's Message

As Christmas and the New Year again approach we are reminded that another year in the history of our Lions Club has moved around. As Lions let us each count our many blessings received during the past season, and return thanks for each and every one of them. Let all true club members be proud we are Lions and may we keep the spirit of Christmas in our club and community all the year, as we spread good cheer and do good deeds.

Accept our good wishes for a Merry Christmas and may Happiness and Prosperity continue through the New Year.

Rayo Woolf, Pres.

Many of you will be interested to know that Robert, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wes McMullen, has a musical program over the CBC entitled "Linger Awhile". His orchestra, made up mostly of string instruments, can be heard over CBX Alberta every Monday night at nine o'clock.

Mrs. Cliff Gough and Diane were visitors in Taber on Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Gough.

Just Penning Thanks

"Oh, horrors! I studied so much last night that I forgot to do my Physics!"

"Ha! Funny, funny!"

"Beast! That's what I get first period."

Typical conversation these days. Everywhere you go it's: "Did you get that?" "Gee, that's funny. First time I've ever heard of that." Etc. etc. You guessed it—Christmas exams. They are the only Christmas parcels we would refuse if we could. Oh, for the days of "Santa Claus!"

Of course, Christmas exams are the most unpleasant feature. (How much D.T. Mr. Jacobs?) There are many more school activities that compensate for those examinations—ugh, how I hate that word. For instance, school rings and pins are being ordered. Students are squeezing out that extra buck from poor Pop for them. They are an unusual, but very attractive, design. (If I were an artist I'd show you) a compliment to anyone's wardrobe. Then there are parties, dances and ball games to distract the student. (continued on page three)

Our Message for You

News from the Legion

The local branch of the Canadian Legion bade adieu to its present executive and wound up affairs for 1950 last Wednesday evening in the Legion Memorial Hall.

To wind up events a delicious turkey supper was served by members of the Auxiliary and enjoyed by a good number of Legion members.

The highlight of the evening was the presentation to the local hospital of an over-the-bed type table. Chairman Paul Moreland of the Hospital Board was on hand to accept the table on behalf of the Board. This table has been at the hospital for some time and was purchased with the proceeds of the "Laff It Off" show which was staged about a year ago. Anyone who has been confined to the hospital of late will certainly appreciate the comfort and convenience this table has afforded bed patients.

Plans for Christmas festivities were also made at this meeting. A mammoth Christmas party for the children of Legion members will be held in conjunction with Auxiliary at the Hall on December 27.

It was also decided to assist the families of several needy veterans in the district and brighten up their holiday with Christmas gifts, etc.

William Lutz of Raymond is spending the holiday season in Saskatchewan with his family there.

Comets Trim Bobcats

On Friday, December 15, the local Comets played host to the Lethbridge Collegiate Bobcats. Although Coach L. H. Jacobs was ill the "A" boys played very good ball under the direction of D. E. Miller. The game proceeded quite smoothly though the play got ragged at times. At half time the score stood at 27 to 14 for the Comets and for the next half the local boys caught fire to outscore Bill Hansen's boys 43 to 15. The final score wrote another overwhelming victory into the records of the R.H.S. Nice going boys.

The new executive takes over the reins of office the first of the year and I understand the new President will call an executive meeting in the near future to organize and get things off to a flying start. The Legion is a worthy organization and deserves the support of every veteran in the district.

The Legion executive and members wish to take this opportunity to wish you, one and all, a Very Merry Christmas and a Happy and Successful New Year.

Musical Program

Tuesday evening a large crowd gathered at the Stake House, where two large and very beautiful Christmas trees reminded one that the festive season was at hand, to enjoy the program that had been prepared under the direction of Peter Kirkpatrick and the four Mutuals. Bill Nalder was M.C. of the two and one half hour program that got under way with the Ladies Chorus singing the beautiful "Silent Night" followed by Mrs. Nelda Bullock of the Third Ward who gave a musical reading of the old Christmas favorite "The Night Before Christmas" accompanied by Marie Dahl at the piano.

Ten lovely solos followed: Virginia Evans sang "Mighty Like a Rose"; Lavela Larsen sang "Sing Me to Sleep"; Theodora Meeks sang the gay tune "John Peel"; Margaret Jacobs sang "I Heard You Go By"; Colleen Housley sang the lilting song "The Valley of Laughter"; Audrey Jensen, "In the Shadow of the Evening"; Margaret Stone, "Homing"; Kay Salmon, "Beside Still Waters"; LaDean McBride, "At Dawning" and Peggy Wilde sang "My Curly Headed Baby".

Mrs. Paul Redd of the Fourth Ward added a light touch to the evening's entertainment when she recited "Just Before Christmas". Three more solos: "Think on Me" by Geraldine Palmer; (continued on page three)

ROTE SPOKES

On Monday a hundred percent turn out of Rotarians stuffed themselves at the last Rotary Meeting of this year. When I say stuffed, I really mean stuffed—for the Ladies Auxiliary to the Legion, in honor of the festive season served up a sumptuous turkey dinner. We certainly appreciate this friendly gesture.

After having satisfied hunger pangs and dispensed with preliminaries they settled down to a program sponsored by the National Employment Service. This program consisted of a film shown by Mr. Bricker of the National Film Board entitled "Date of Birth" and a commentary by Mr. Stauffer of the National Employment Service, Lethbridge Office. This program placed squarely before us the employment problem of the older people of Canada. Here is much food for thought and we thank these people gentlemen for an interesting half hour.

For the rest of this column I think it fitting to bring to those who might read these lines, a Christmas message from the President of Rotary International Arthur Lagueux.

"As the first snows of Winter sift down on the hills of Quebec and families begin to make happy plans for the season of the holidays, there comes to my mind a legend I heard often in my childhood.

Lumbering was the chief industry of the little village where I grew up. Each Autumn we would see our lumberjacks depart for their 'wood yards' deep in the forest, not to return until Spring. Snowed-in all winter, they felled the trees and sawed their logs and enjoyed the rugged life—except at Christmas time. Then thinking of the gayety and candles and church bells and loved ones at home, they yearned desperately to return for at least one night. According to the old legend, as my father told it to me each year, they could return. In 'flying canoes' they could soar out of their lonely forests and glide back to the twinkling lights along the St. Lawrence.

There was one catch, however. It was the devil who navigated these flying canoes and the price he demanded for passage was the forester's soul. Also, he might spill his passengers into the trees anywhere en route. So, only the toughest of woodmen ever tried to get home in the 'flying canoe'. Invariably they awakened the next day, still in their lonely camps, fervently wishing they were dead. 'Someday you will understand', my father said.

I believe I do understand. I understand that deep in the heart of every man, whether he be a Canadian wood-chopper or a Chilean mine owner, an Indian textile manufacturer or an Italian lawyer, there is a yearning for the kind of joy, peace and contentment that the season of Christmas generates in millions of homes around the earth. Someone has said that if there had been no Christmas, we should have had to invent one. Perhaps so—for surely men of all creeds and countries need at least one day, whatever its name, in which to stop and show each other that this can yet be a friendly, kindly, peaceful world.

A peaceful world? What bitter disappointments we have had in our hopes and plans for it. Even now our young men must fight in Asia and guard the barricades in Europe. And the great cities of the earth, not yet recovered from World War II, must seriously plan what they would do if atomic bombs fell.

Serving one of Canada's richest irrigated mixed farming districts.

The "young married" women—one of those Clubs with no name—played at being host to their hard-working husbands at a pre-Christmas party on Wednesday night at the Joe Keeler home. After the late-comers got there Bob Brandley told a story—three times, and at long last Dr. (Bob Hope) Taylor found a spark of humor that escaped the rest of us. After the third telling Bob informed us that it wasn't even supposed to be a joke. Oh well, we had fun anyway. For the joke (?) my good and lovely wife tried to tell, look elsewhere in this paper—it's the one about pepper.

Great acting ability was displayed by everyone present during the Charades. The names of shows took as little as ten seconds and as much as five minutes to be acted out. The gals beat us by one minute—according to the score-keeper who, naturally, was not a member of our side.

Next came the thing all men love about all women, lunch. The girls got together to supply a very delicious salad and light fluffy rolls (that my wife found someplace—probably in a bakery) topped off with ice cream, cookies and cake.

Although Mr. and Mrs. S. C. were not present, there were presents for everyone and, to say the least, a fine time was had by all down to and including young Donald Anderson.

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Walker had a narrow escape the other day on their way home from Vancouver. Mr. and Mrs. Walker were in the first of a line of three busses in Vancouver and were asked to sit in another bus by some boys from Trail who wanted to travel in a group. Because they had a front seat the Walkers decided to stay, and lucky it was for them because when they got into Grand Forks B. C. they were told by the RCMP that the second bus had gone over a cliff. Glen and some other men went back to help extricate the injured from the totally wrecked bus. Three people were quite seriously injured and two more were detained at the hospital.

Fine Variety Program

The Glee-ette Club sponsored Variety program presented in the Stake House last Thursday night was a great success—both musically and financially. The Club sponsored this program to raise funds to assist the L.D.S. Girls in the building of their summer home in Waterton Park.

The program was under the direction of Beth Walker and Geneva Erickson with Connie Grant at the piano. Genial Dick Kinsey was M. C. for the following program.

A School-room Playlet featuring Grace Selman, Maxine Dahl, Margaret Jacobs, Kay Salmon, Laurie Harker, Robert Gemlich and Mary Court.

The Dreaming Playlet gave Gil Evans a chance to dream of his many old girl friends, in the company of his wife of course, and as each girl came back in his dream she sang a solo. Gil's many g. f.'s were Jeanine Jensen, Nora Stone, Evelyn Melchin, Gen Hawkins, Mona Palmer, Mary Court, Reita Walker and Laura Watson. His dreaming wife was Phillipa Meeks. As the second part of his double feature dream, Evelyn Melchin, Gen Hawkins and Laura Watson sang a trio.

A solo by Bill Mehew.

The Town Band under the direction of Grant Paxman played around with 'MacNamara's Band'.

A Quartette made up of Myron Hamilton, Shirley King, Grant Paxman and Herb Bishop was accompanied at the piano by Reita Walker.

"Down By The Sea" by Laurie Harker, Maxine Dahl, Robert Gemlich, Kay Salmon, Mary Court, and Margaret Jacobs.

The Glee-ette Club sang—Baked A Cake—A Grand Night For Singing—In The Garden of Tomorrow—Neapolitan Nights—Luxembourg Gardens—Morning—Dreaming—Always—When I Grow To Old To Dream—One Fleeting Hour—Waters of Minnetonka—Christmas Cradle Song—O Holy Night—We Wish You A Merry Christmas.

The proceeds of the evening will be divided among the First, Third, Fourth and Welling Wards.

Mrs. Ruth Ackroyd is President of the Glee-ette Club.

Winners in the Provincial Hospital Christmas Raffle were Mrs. Mildred Jensen of DelBonita who won the table cloth and serviettes; Penny Jones from Wrentham who won the table cloth with the crochet trim and Mrs. Joe Kirkham who won the cushion.

Friends will be sorry to learn that Mrs. Sarah Jane Holmes is still in a coma after suffering a stroke on Wednesday morning. She is being treated at the home of Albert Winkler by Dr. Harris Walker and although there is nothing definite she seems to be getting weaker. She is paralysed except for her right arm. Mrs. Holmes 88th birthday comes in May.

Woodruff Wood, accompanied by Miss Warrington, are house guests at the home of Woodruff's parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. Geo. Wood for the Christmas holidays. They are both students at the University in Eugene, Oregon.

Yet to become discouraged, to give up, to ask, "What's the use?" would be to surrender to the forces of evil. It would be to say that the vision of peace we glimpse in this season is a mere mirage.

Such despair has no place in Rotary. The 342,000 of us who make up our 7,200 Clubs in 83 lands are disposed to be cheerful and optimistic. We have seen that we can do something about "the advancement of international understanding, goodwill, and peace"—as our Fourth Object puts it—right in our home towns. On recent travels across North America I have seen again, even in wind-swept Nome away out on the edge of nowhere, how Rotary makes men feel a kinship with other men halfway around the earth. By the time you are reading this I shall be visiting Rotarians in Europe and there I know I shall find men who though they have suffered much, believe that the world's great need is for more understanding, more human sympathy.

I have two hopes for the joyous season so many Rotarians will soon be observing. One is that it may be a time for reflection—a moment to examine our assets and liabilities as individuals, citizens and Rotarians. Rotary has been called "kindness applied." Are we applying it? Are we bringing to others a little of the joy, the kindness of a good word? Are we feeding the hungry that all men and children have for friendship? Are we doing something for somebody?

My other hope—and it is a very old one—is that the spirit of the season might run on through the year, that its gaiety, goodwill, and optimism might prevail long after the candles are snuffed.

In the last book to come from his pen Rotary's beloved Founder, Paul Harris, told a Christmas story from his boyhood. Growing up in the home of his grandparents in Vermont, he was taught the traditional New England ideas of thrift. In his stocking one Christmas morning there were not the bright toys he had expected, but rather only a $5.00 gold piece. Grandpa thought it time the little boy became practical. When Paul cried, Grandpa added another $5.00 gold piece—but still the boy was not happy. It was only when Grandpa ordered Paul to rehang his stocking and she stuffed it with all the good things he had dreamed of that his joy was complete.

We need to be stern and realistic in this life. But how greatly we also need to pour out our friendship, sympathy, and cheer—remembering that deep in the woods or beside us at our work are many who yearn for it beyond words. Giving it bountifully, we may all come a little closer to peace on earth and goodwill toward men."

So until next week this is your Rote Reporter who wishes to one and all joy and the abundance of an old fashioned Christmas tide.

There just isn't a better way of saying it...

so we'll say it again—

Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year

Jacks Lose 1 and Win 1

Monday night in Magrath the Jacks suffered a two point loss when the Rockets won a thrill packed game with only seconds to go. Final score—58 to 56.

On Wednesday night the Union Jacks trimmed the Shelby Marines with a score of 61 to 42. The improved Marines, with the addition of Wilfred Johnson (last year's International Individual Scoring champion) and C. Coover, lanky six foot six centre, held their own beautifully until half time. In fact the half time score read 24 to 23 in favor of the Marines.

The next half, however, turned completely into the Jack's hands. Starry Art Zeihn led the point parade for the night netting 22 counters. Coover held up the long end of the visitors' score with 16 points.

Although Shelby has greatly improved only a handful of fans saw the Jacks gain two more points in league standing. What's happened to all the "faithful" fans that turn up for the Magrath and Lethbridge games?

Lineups: A. West, 10; L. West, 11; Zeihn, 22; Rolfson; Hickson, 2; A. Wood; Nakder, 4; Stevens, 12. Total 61. Shelby: Spooner, 4; Brown, 10; Coover, 16; Johnson, 10; Adams, 1; Woldvedt, 1; McPhillips. Total 42.

In the preliminary, Karen McKlean led the High School Helcats to a 44 to 18 victory over the Jackettes by scoring 9 points.

"The Fairy Tailor" by Marolyn Veen and "The Hills of Donegal" by Anita McBride were followed by congregational singing of Christmas carols led by Mr. Kirkpatrick.

The remainder of the musical program was as follows: Mona Palmer, "Praise the Lord"; Pat Strong, "Brown Bird Singing"; Carma Woolley, "Green Hills"; Laurie Harker, "My Lovely Celia"; Darcelle West, "I Walked Today Where Jesus Walked"; Nora Stone, "Vella"; Jeanine Jensen, "Early One Morning"; "White Christmas" and "Dedication". Delbert Oler of the Second Ward played a saxophone solo after which the Ladies Chorus sang a number of carols.

The First Ward presented a beautiful Pageant, "Why the Chimes Rang", with Betty Evans as narrator. The evening was concluded with Peter Kirkpatrick singing three songs by special request, "They Crucified My Lord", "O Holy Night" and "Trees". Accompanist for all numbers was Mrs. Emma Dahl.

Plays, presents, Christmas shopping and so on take quite a toll. Everyone comes to school looking as if they were advertising Lipton's tea-bags. Play practice you know. There are the fortunate few who don't even make it, quite. They still believe in that jolly little red-nosed elf so they hike off to the city to visit him. But it's all part of Christmas and, after the few very short days of holiday, we can settle back into the old routine and fall asleep in English. It will soon be over for another year, let's enjoy it while we can!

To all my readers (I hope I have some) I would like to extend the warmest best wishes for a Happy and Blessed Christmas. "May the infant Jesus be always with you", as were in charge of the very delicious my Hungarian ancestors would say.

The Psychology Club held their annual Christmas party Monday evening in the High School with their husbands and children as special guests.

A High School and a Public School chorus under the direction of Velma Redd, each sang a number of Carols, after which the pre-school children under the supervision of Ruth Gibb sang three Carol Action Songs. The fathers, not to be outdone by their children, then demonstrated how 'Jolly Old St. Nicholas' should be sung, complete with actions.

Three Christmas films preceded the entrance of Mr. and Mrs. Santa Clause who distributed gifts from under the beautifully decorated Christmas Tree, to the 130 people present.

Merry Christmas
one and all

The Neighborhood Club met at the home of Maybell Anderson for their annual Christmas party last week. After an evening of pleasant conversation amid gay Christmas decorations gifts were exchanged and the hostess served a tasty lunch.

Charles Ackroyd and Bruce Galbraith made another trip to the mountains last week and, although they didn't bring anything back with them but the truck they had to leave there last time, they thoroughly enjoyed themselves.

A dinner party honoring J. L. Gibb was held on Saturday at the Gibb home with Mrs. Gibb as hostess. Covers were laid for 24 guests. After the delicious dinner the evening was spent in pleasant conversation.

If this wonderful weather keeps on, the attendance at that Curling Meeting Friday night should be a howling success. The purpose of the meeting is to discuss the possibility of artificial ice.
